Armory Mining Comments on Natural Resources Canada's Funding in Nova Scotia and Engages Investor Relations Providers

Vancouver, British Columbia, March 5, 2025 – Armory Mining Corp. (CSE: ARMY) (OTC: RMRYF) (FRA: 2JS) (the "Company" or "Armory") is pleased to announce that Natural Resources Canada has conditionally approved funding for the critical minerals sector in Nova Scotia. Armory is pleased to see Natural Resources Canada investing in the province's critical minerals potential. This move aligns with the Company's mission to develop sustainable and responsible mining projects.

The conditional funding approval for Nova Scotia is a positive development for companies like Armory. With 16 critical minerals identified as strategically important, including antimony, cobalt, and rare earth elements, Nova Scotia is positioning itself for an opportunity to become a key player in the global critical minerals market.

Natural Resources Canada's funding may not only boost exploration potential but also supports crucial supply chains. The Company views this as a clear signal that Canada is serious about securing its position in the critical minerals sector, vital for clean energy technologies and national security.

As the Company continues to advance its projects, it is excited about the possibility of accessing funding through the Canadian Critical Minerals Strategy. This $3.8 billion allocation demonstrates Canada's commitment to fostering a robust domestic critical minerals industry.
