EXPEDITION MINING SEEKS TO ENTER THE CANNABIS AND HEMP INDUSTRY

Vancouver, British Columbia, September 23, 2014 – Expedition Mining Inc. (TSX-V: EXU) (the "Company") announces that the board of directors has instructed Ron Atlas, its President and Chairman of the Board, to seek out opportunities in the medical and recreational cannabis field, as well as possible projects in the hemp industry in both Canada and the United States. The company is currently listed as a junior resource issuer having mineral exploration projects. The company is considering other activities to increase shareholder value, including non-resource projects. If such opportunities are uncovered, Expedition will consider a change of business out of the mining industry.

President Ron Atlas stated "while the mining industry is in a downward trend right now, the new laws in various American states, as well as the new Health Canada regulatory changes, have opened an entire new industry which we would like to explore for the benefit of our shareholders. As an emerging industry, both the medical and recreational use of cannabis will provide exceptional business opportunities for years to come."

The Company would also like to announce, after careful review of the results of trenching and test drilling of its prospective Burkina Faso opportunity, it has decided not to proceed with the exercise of the option it was granted by 0909189 BC Ltd.

Expedition presently holds the Long Canyon in Nevada on which it has recently completed a 1,600 m (5,000 ft) drill program. The Company is awaiting a climate more conducive to additional drilling and exploration.
