

Quaterra Resources Awards Contracts for Environmental Permitting Work for the MacArthur Oxide Copper Project

Vancouver, British Columbia--(Newsfile Corp. - November 9, 2021) - Quaterra Resources Inc. (TSXV: QTA) (OTCQB: QTRRF) (the "Company") is pleased to announce that it has selected NewFields Companies LLC ("NewFields") to lead environmental permitting efforts for the MacArthur oxide copper project (the "Project"). NewFields is a leading global environmental engineering and construction management firm with expertise in natural resource and development projects, specifically in Nevada.

The Company has also selected EM Strategies (a WestLand Resources Inc. company) to complete the baseline environmental studies for the Project. EM Strategies is a recognized leader in managing these important aspects of development projects throughout the Western United States.

Near term work to be performed by NewFields and EM Strategies includes: development of sustainability initiatives; technical studies for geochemistry and hydrogeology; baseline studies for vegetation, wildlife and cultural resources; and engaging in permitting steps required for the Project.

"We are pleased to be engaging with such high-quality groups to assist the Company with the environmental permitting process for the Project," said Quaterra CEO Travis Naugle. "This work, while exceeding the requirements of the ongoing Prefeasibility Study, is consistent with our core values in ESG and sustainability, and demonstrates our resolve in advancing the MacArthur oxide copper project."
