About Affinor Growers Inc.

Affinor is a biotechnology company acquiring, patenting and commercializing vertical farming technology for both the indoor controlled environment and outdoor greenhouse agriculture industry. Fresh food organic produce is a $33.8 billion industry and is expected to nearly double by 2025. Affinor sells our technology to existing farmers, entrepreneurs wanting to build new state-of-the-art growing facilities and larger partners wanting exclusivity in regions or crops with right to re-sell the technology. The world's population has created challenges in food security and pressure on natural resources creating problems that can only be solved through technological advancement. As a practice, traditional farming is not going to disappear, but it is crucial that alternative agricultural practices and technology be devised to alleviate the innate limits of conventional farming methods. As a solution, Affinor Growers Inc. offers patented agricultural technology and proprietary cultivation systems for both the indoor and greenhouse growing environments.
