"Since day one of the pandemic, the Company's top priority has been to help communities protect the health of its residents with testing. It is still crucially important for all Canadians to follow community health measures to stay safe and prevent the spread of COVID-19, wearing a mask when needed, staying six feet apart, washing your hands frequently, getting tested, and importantly staying home if you are not feeling well," commented Andrew Ryu, Chairman of ScreenPro Security.

"All through the COVID-19 pandemic, our mobile testing teams have provided Canadians with reliable, adaptable testing able to reach communities across the GTA and Vancouver. The scale of our testing resources, soon to expand in testing capability, has improved in step with our knowledge of how to best engage this pandemic, ensuring that testing is directed to those clients who need it the most. Working hand-in-hand with our supply-chain partners, our testing standard will continue to lead us securely forward and create a long-term relationship with our clients that value the well-being of their communities long after the fight against COVID-19 comes to an end," said Lena Kozovski, CEO of the Company.
