Hough also played a key role in creating Superberry Sport™. A passionate advocate for healthy living and a regular consumer of Blender Bites products, she actively participated in creating the ideal post-workout smoothie.

"Creating a custom smoothie blend has been a dream of mine for some time now," says Hough. "I am a huge proponent of smoothies after my exhaustive workout and dance schedules, and I have seen firsthand how supplementing my body properly helps tremendously in my recovery. When the opportunity arose to create a custom formula with Blender Bites, I knew that I had to replicate my own daily smoothie. I couldn't be more excited to share this with everyone, and I know it will benefit others as much as it has benefited me."

"We're excited to penetrate the sports nutrition market alongside such a known and respected brand such as Orgain," says Chelsie Hodge, Founder and CEO of Blender Bites. "By collaborating with Orgain, we were able to create a convenient and effective product that supports post workout recovery. We're confident health-conscious consumers will love it."

"Blender Bites' dedication to convenience and clean ingredients perfectly complements Orgain's expertise in creating delicious, plant-based nutrition," says Abraham. "It was an exciting experience to work with the team in developing a 1-step smoothie that delivers on taste and provides post-workout support for active individuals."
