

BELGRAVIA CAPITAL files request that Canadian Securities Exchange review Tartisan Nickel's ability to remain listed and offers Shareholders alternatives

TORONTO, Aug. 28, 2018 -- BELGRAVIA CAPITAL INTERNATIONAL INC. (CSE: BLGV) (OTCQB: BLGVF) ("Belgravia") today announces that it has filed an application with the Canadian Securities Exchange ("CSE") requesting that the stock exchange review Tartisan Nickel Corp.'s ("Tartisan") (CSE: TN) compliance with the CSE's continued listing requirements ("CLR"). The application is primarily based on certain share transactions undertaken by and/or between Tartisan CEO Mark Appleby and third parties whom Belgravia believes Appleby acts together in respect of the shares they own or over which they exercise control and direction over.

Mehdi Azodi, President and CEO, Belgravia stated, "At first blush this application may seem counter-intuitive however, as one of Tartisan's largest shareholders, we believe that Tartisan's situation has deteriorated to such an extent and its current board is so entrenched that this is a viable alternative for Belgravia to protect all shareholders investments by trying to turn Tartisan around. Belgravia filed the application with the CSE for a number of reasons, but the overriding reason is that we believe Belgravia's interests, the interests of all non-management related shareholders and the interests of the CSE are all aligned."

Azodi further explained that Belgravia's interests and the other non-management shareholders are aligned in that both realize that creation of shareholder value only comes through identification of promising projects and the expenditure of adequate funds under the supervision of seasoned management in order to ascertain their full potential. Tartisan's current directors and management have neither the ability nor the interest in doing that.

In conclusion, Azodi stated, "If the CSE invokes its quality assurance by suspending trading in Tartisan's shares in light of current management's past dealings and track record, and the current Tartisan board is replaced by the Belgravia nominees, Belgravia believes its 100-day plan and the reputation, skillset and the funding Belgravia can bring to Tartisan will create an entirely reinvigorated public company where shareholder value will be enhanced."
