

BELGRAVIA CAPITAL files complaint with OSC against Mark Appleby of Tartisan Nickel and others for what it believes are multiple breaches of the Securities Act

TORONTO, Sept. 04, 2018 -- BELGRAVIA CAPITAL INTERNATIONAL INC. (CSE: BLGV) (OTCQB: BLGVF) ("Belgravia") today announced that it has filed a formal complaint letter with the Ontario Securities Commission ("OSC") setting out, in detail, with copies of documents and email correspondence, that relate to what Belgravia believes are various breaches of the Securities Act committed by, or under the direction of, Tartisan Nickel Corp. ("Tartisan") (CSE: TN) CEO, D. Mark Appleby either alone, or acting in conjunction with, other Tartisan shareholders.

Mehdi Azodi, President and CEO of Belgravia stated, "As we reviewed the shareholder lists of Tartisan in order to prepare the dissident proxy circular, we found among other items, a number of unusual share registrations. When the share registration was compared to the information on the holdings of Mark Appleby and certain other shareholders of Tartisan, we were unable to correlate what Mark Appleby said to be the information contained in the shareholder lists or to the insider reports of Mark Appleby, as well as various known acquaintances that have been referred to in his correspondence".

Azodi further explained that Belgravia began to closely examine not only certain Tartisan share transactions it had undertaken in the secondary market at the request of Mark Appleby when it first invested in Tartisan, however, it also investigated other secondary market transactions and voting patterns undertaken by other shareholders known to Mark Appleby which occurred both before (at the February meeting of shareholders) and after Belgravia had invested in Tartisan.

At the conclusion of its investigations, Belgravia has reason to believe that Mark Appleby acting alone and/or in conjunction with other shareholders:

- may not have filed insider reports which show all the shares of Tartisan over which they exercise control or direction;
- may have diverted funds away from the treasury of Tartisan into the hands of third parties for reasons which are not apparent to Belgravia;
- failed to make adequate and timely disclosure of a lawsuit Belgravia filed against Tartisan and Mark Appleby in mid-June 2018 for, among other matters, breach of contract and negligent misrepresentation; and
- prior to publicly disclosing the existence of the Belgravia lawsuit in early July of 2018, Appleby may have tipped at least one third party allowing it to avoid losses on the sale of its shares.

Azodi concluded by saying "Belgravia will provide every assistance at its disposal which may be requested by the Ontario Securities Commission as well as the Canadian Securities Exchange in any investigation they carry out in this regard".

IMMEDIATE ACTION IS IMPERATIVE TO CREATE SHAREHOLDER VALUE FOR TARTISAN NICKEL SHAREHOLDERS.
