NanoSphere Provides Update on Canadian Operations

Vancouver, Nov. 04, 2019 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- NanoSphere Health Sciences Inc. (CSE: NSHS) (OTC: NSHSF) ("Nanosphere" or "the Company") wishes to provide an update regarding its operations in Canada, along with its Canadian partner, Delta 9 Cannabis Inc, (TSX:DN) ("Delta 9").

We are pleased to announce that Delta 9 has filed a Notice of New Cannabis Product Application with Health Canada and will be proceeding to produce commercial batches of an ingestible cannabis oil using Nanosphere patented technology. Once produced, the initial commercial batches will require final review and approval by Delta 9 and Health Canada prior to being sold under the Delta 9 – Evolve brand in the Canadian Market.

Per NanoSphere Health Sciences CEO, Dr. Mark Percival: "This marks an important phase in our company's development and our entry into the Canadian Market. It also marks the beginning for Canadian consumers who are looking to expand on the benefits they have experienced using cannabis products. The new products being launched by Delta 9 are the first in Canada to utilize aspects of our patented NanoSphere Delivery System. Medical cannabis patients and seasoned recreational users alike will appreciate the difference more effective delivery makes to their experiences".
