

NanoSphere Health Sciences Inc.

News Release

Vancouver (November 29, 2019) – NanoSphere Health Sciences Inc. (CSE: NSHS) (OTC: NSHSF) (“Nanosphere” or the “Company”) reports that it has re-priced and extended the expiry date of an aggregate of 6,190,235 warrants. The warrants were originally issued pursuant to a private placement on December 4, 2017, had an exercise price of $0.75 and had an expiry date of December 4, 2019. The warrants, as amended, will have an exercise price of $0.55 and will expire on December 4, 2021.

The Company further advises that a liquidating trust acting on behalf of the creditors of a company that declared bankruptcy in 2006 has initiated a lawsuit against a former director-officer of the Company in the Federal District Court of Colorado. The claim alleges that the former director-officer made fraudulent disclosures of his financial resources to the trust in connection with the settlement of prior litigation relating to the bankruptcy, resulting in the trust being defrauded into executing the settlement and releasing the former director-officer from the litigation. The trust has named the Company and NanoSphere Health Sciences, LLC (“Nano LLC”), as well as a number of other individuals and business entities, as third party defendants in the current action based on the trust’s assertion that Nano LLC, established in 2013, was founded on funds received from the former director-officer and thus conspired in the fraud. The trust has made no attempt to quantify the claim or amount of damages it is asserting versus the Company. The Company vigorously denies any wrongdoing or liability to the trust and considers the claim against the Company to be frivolous. Based on advice received from litigation counsel, the Company considers the prospect for judgement against the Company to be remote as the claim appears to lack merit, and the Company will vigorously defend itself and seek dismissal from the action. The trustee and the former director-officer are currently in settlement discussions.

The Company further advises that its licensee for Evolve products in Colorado has indicated that it is unable to maintain its manufacture and distribution of the Company’s Evolve products within that territory. The parties are in discussions with respect to the dissolution of the license arrangement and the Company intends to seek out a new licensee.
