

DEPLOY TECHNOLOGIES INC. DEPLOY COMPLETES PROTOTYPE VERSION II PRODUCTION

Vancouver, BC, Canada, April 12, 2011 - Deploy Technologies Inc. (OTC: DPLY), announced today that the company has completed production of the Version II prototype hardware design and manufacture process. The hardware design and manufacturing of Version II is complete and the Operating System software development is under way.

The original Version I prototype has weigh and data management capabilities however the new Version II prototype has much greater capabilities. These new features not only allow for integration of the Company's weigh system and data management system, but also allow for integration of other weigh technologies into the Deploy's data management system. The data management system combines all vehicle, driver, gps location, weight, client, and field data and communicates securely between vehicles and office locations.

David Eppert, Chief Executive Officer of Deploy, stated: "Our research shows that many of our target clients have bits and pieces of technologies installed but few have well rounded data management and weigh technology solutions implemented in their highly dynamic environments. We are working towards securing a development contract partner to develop a custom application for their environment and implement our Live Trials stage."
