

DEPLOY TO ENTER INTERNET SECURITY MARKET

Vancouver, BC, June 22, 2015 - Deploy Technologies Inc. (CSE: DEP, US OTC: DPLY) (“Deploy” or the “Company”) is pleased to announce, effective immediately, the Company will establish an online security division, “Deploy Security,” which will be developing a proprietary hardware/software solution to combat all levels of online threats.

The company believes that in the wake of the rash of security breaches worldwide, the market for a next-generation security platform is tremendous. The Company will continue to market its patented fleet Data Management and Weigh System technologies.

“Deploy is about evolving technology,” commented CEO David Eppert, “and this is certainly the right time to enter the market. It is noteworthy that Raytheon, primarily know as a defense contractor to the US government, has been systematically buying up cyber security companies since 2007. Raytheon recently announced they will invest $1.57 billion to develop and market their platforms after most recently agreeing to acquire Websense for $1.9 Billion, evidencing the bullishness of the security sector.”

Mr. Eppert, who in 2001 founded Think Security, a company that pioneered ‘person present’ authentication without the use of a hardware device: “This is indeed an exciting new direction for Deploy, one that the board believes will translate into increased shareholder value.”
