Located in Alberta, Canada, Avila Energy Corporation (“AVILA” or the “Company”) is an emerging CSE listed corporation (VIK.CN) and is a producer, explorer, and developer of energy. The Company was incorporated on January 13, 2010, pursuant to the provisions of the Business Corporations Act of Alberta.

As a producer of oil and gas in Alberta, the Company employs staff with professional designations and professional consultants.

As part of its activities, the Company’s main source of supplies is professional services, including independent contractors for equipment services, and sells its products to energy marketers. As the Company has no identifiable risk of forced or child labour, there is no requirement to remediate any forced or child labour. Nor does it require to take measures to remediate the loss of income to the most vulnerable families that results from any measure taken to eliminate the use of forced or child labour.

The Company, in its normal oil and gas activities, is not subject to any risk of forced or child labour. Therefore, the Company does not require to assess or manage any risk related to forced or child labor. Therefore, the Company has decided that training provided to employees or contractors in forced and child labour, is not required at this time.

Finally, AVILA does not have policies or due diligent processes that address the risk of forced or child labour. The Company will continue to assess any potential risk of forced and child labour.
