Lifestyle Delivery Systems Inc. Purchases Ten Acres in Adelanto, California for the Development of a Contract Cultivation Project

Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada, June 21, 2017, Lifestyle Delivery Systems Inc. (CSE: LDS), (OTCQB: LDSYF), (Frankfurt: LD6, WKN: A14XHT) ("LDS" or the "Company") is pleased to announce that the Company has acquired ten acres in Adelanto, California for the development of a contract cultivation project.

The land parcel acquired by the Company for a total cash consideration of USD$500,000, is located in close proximity to the 22,000 square foot Adelanto facility currently being retrofitted by the Company for use in its planned business operations pursuant to the management agreements with NHMC, Inc. and CSPA Group, Inc.

The newly acquired ten acres is suitable for up to ten individual 20,000 square foot cultivation facilities. These facilities together could potentially produce as much as 25% of the total bio-mass necessary to supply LDS Scientific's projected annual manufacturing and production requirements to produce oil and distillate for CannaStrips™. The Company intends to develop and own the facilities, which will be leased to permitted cultivation entities that hold Conditional Use Permits in Adelanto. The Company, through series of operating and management agreements, will have a right of first refusal to acquire the bio-mass produced in the new cultivation facilities. The integration of this project into the Company's supply chain will allow for a continuous supply of clean bio-mass for manufacturing the purest and safest products possible. The CEO of LDS, Brad Eckenweiler commented, "This project is an integral part of the Company's overall strategy to control its production and manufacturing capabilities at every level of the supply chain. From seed to sale we intend to control the quality, effectiveness and the cost to the patients." The Company intends to submit its development plans to the City of Adelanto in July 2017 for approval.
