AIM was founded in 2010 through the purchase of the assets of R2 Software A/S, a Danish company which was owned by Greater Arizona Investments, a division of the Symington Group, of which former Governor Hon. J. Fife Symington was the founding partner. "We are excited about achieving this milestone in the building of our business for several reasons" said former Governor Symington. He added "Manuweb and its CNSX listing have facilitated unique capital formation opportunities for our company and I believe will create additional opportunities for other Arizona corporations".

John Ragan, Managing Partner of Greater Arizona Investments and a Partner in the Symington Group commented "this acquisition will give our business several strategic options going forward and we are pleased with the achievement of this milestone".

Van Potter, AIM's President and CEO commented "our strategy is to leverage our initial strength in the large information data protection and recovery market through both organic growth and by aggregating smaller companies into a fast growing specialty IT services company. We believe there is a huge opportunity for both delivery of unique and valuable services to our customers and creation of significant shareholder value with this strategy".

Brian Cameron, CNSX Business Development Representative, Southwest Markets and CFO of AIM and Manuweb said, "CNSX is unique medium for U.S. issuers to secure capital and liquidity for their shareholders in what is now a defined process and model that can be replicated".
