"I am really excited to share the release of the fully revamped Limitless VPN." Commented Lucas Russell, CEO of ANON. "The integration of our ANON SDK into the enhanced VPN coupled with the commencement of revenue generation marks a significant milestone. Over the past few months, the team has tirelessly worked to refine and enhance each aspect of the VPN and we anticipate launching the beta test of our forthcoming enterprise addition to the VPN which is one step to building the "full suite of products" which we intend to release in the next months."

The Limitless VPN is the first public release of a program featuring the ANON SDK that uses public data to monetize applications without compromising user security. Users of the VPN simply agree to allow the SDK to run alongside the VPN for access to a premium VPN service for free.
