

NetCents Technology to Enter Video Game Industry with X2 Blockchain Games

VANCOUVER, Aug. 28, 2018 /CNW/ - NetCents Technology Inc. ("NetCents" or the "Company") (CSE: NC / Frankfurt: 26N) is pleased to announce that it has entered into an agreement with X2 Blockchain Games (X2).

X2 was founded by Nolan Bushnell, the founder of Atari and Chuck E. Cheese's Pizza Time Theatre, together with game developers and legendary Hollywood VFX expert, Zai Ortiz. X2 is an independent game publisher creating cutting-edge strategy and mobile games integrating blockchain technology.

Through this agreement, NetCents will work with X2 to integrate cryptocurrency and payment processing into X2's suite of video games, as well as exploring potential value-added capabilities and services.

The NetCents platform will be used as an Asset Management System to be used within the suite of games for users to obtain and manage their winnings. These winnings will be stored and managed on the NetCents Gateway. The Asset Management System will manage all in-game wallets and users will be able to withdraw, exchange, and redeem their winnings via their X2 gamer profile to export to their external wallet. Through this agreement, NetCents will be adding support for smart contracts on the Ethereum blockchain, supporting both ERC 20 and ERC 721 tokens.

X2 is developing a suite of games that leverage Blockchain Technology to create bigger, better and more valuable games experiences, seamlessly integrating the digital and physical realms and creating real world value opportunities for player.

Games currently in development include over 40 games from Nolan Bushnell's back catalogue, dating from 1977 to present day. These historic games will be developed and designed to meet modern day technological advances integrating Blockchain Technology and Cryptocurrency elements into game play.
