Alain Ghiai, CEO of GlobeX Data said: "We are very happy to be invited to present at the Emerging Growth Conference and introduce GlobeX Data and our brand Sekur. The Company is now launching its business services in the USA and we are here to tell our story to the investment community. Privacy and Security has become a very hot topic and a big problematic as consumers and businesses' data are being mined and hacked constantly, violating people's privacy and security and risking the theft of intellectual property of businesses in the USA. With the high risks of hackers attacking the USA on all fronts, we offer an alternative to big-tech for privacy and security in communications with our Sekur suite of solutions and its many unique benefits, such as Swiss hosted data privacy and security, and the right for consumers and businesses not to have their data mined by third party service providers. As we are not connected, and never have been connected, "Big Tech" platforms, we can offer a truly independent, private and secure means of communications through secure messaging, secure voice record transfer and secure email and secure video conferencing, through our proprietary technology and our secure servers based in Switzerland. As we move forward, and our brand becomes synonymous with data privacy over the coming months and years, we look forward to offer true data privacy and no data mining to all Americans."
