Grant Hendrickson commented: “I hope our video allows the public and current shareholders to see the general terrain of our Rude Creek Project. The Yukon is a far-off place for many, so I hope this video allows us to bring the project to the convenience of people’s screens.”

Background on Rude Creek

Rude Creek is situated 12 kms southeast of the very large tonnage Casino copper-gold deposit, owned by Western Copper and Gold. The Casino deposit is being seriously considered for large-scale development. Newmont’s sizeable Coffee orogenic gold deposit is located 45 kms to the northwest of Rude Creek. The Coffee Creek and Casino projects, together with the Rude Creek and other interesting gold projects in the area, are all contributing to the White Gold and Dawson Range gold belts becoming one of the most rapidly evolving regions of the Yukon.

Background on Davis claims and Paradise Valley claims

The Davis Claims and Paradise Valley claims are located in Nye County, Nevada. The project encompasses 900 hectares consisting of two contiguous parcels of land, being the Davis claims to the north and the Paradise Valley claims to the south. The Davis claims, comprising 34 claims over 270 hectares, are held pursuant to a mining lease with the State of Nevada. The Paradise Valley claims are comprised of 79 newly staked claims over 630 hectares. The Project is located eight miles southeast of the village of Gabbs, Nevada, and five miles northeast of the closed Paradise Peak mine of FMC Gold.

Cautionary Statement
