SPARC AI LAUNCHES CONNECTIVITY OPTIONS TO ENHANCE ITS DRONE TARGET ACQUISITION SYSTEM

October 29, 2024 – Toronto, Canada – SPARC AI INC. (CSE: SPAI) (OTCQB: SPAIF) (Frankfurt: 5OV0) (“SPAI” or the “Company”) is pleased to report SPARC AI has developed a new connectivity module for its drone’s target acquisition system.

The offline version enables the drone to capture distance measurements and geo-coordinates for target acquisition without requiring internet or network connectivity. The online version, on the other hand, supports connectivity and may, in the future, integrate with private networks or defense-grade communication systems. Additionally, the company also plans to expand this capability, enabling operators to effortlessly switch between online and offline modes within a single flight mission.

SPARC AI is enhancing the platform to deliver maximum flexibility, adapting seamlessly to diverse use cases and mission requirements.

This version 2.0 release offers enhanced capabilities specifically designed for identifying target locations in complex terrains and environments. The upgraded technology addresses challenging target acquisition needs, supporting key sectors including search and rescue, border security, defense, and situational awareness.

The Company is currently conducting final tests in preparation for the launch of its sales campaign, aimed at engaging with distributors throughout the United States.
