

SPARC AI INC.
NEWS RELEASESPARC AI TRANSFORMS THE FIELD WITH BREAKTHROUGH
GOOGLE MAPS INTEGRATION

November 4, 2024 – Toronto, Canada – SPARC AI INC. (CSE: SPAI) (OTCQB: SPAIF) (Frankfurt: 5OV0) (“SPAI” or the “Company”) is pleased to report that it has launched an innovative solution for recording multiple points of interest using its Target Acquisition System.

SPARC AI has seamlessly integrated Google Maps for its Target Acquisition System. This feature enables users to view the target's location on a map and explore its surroundings in greater detail, including street view. This situation awareness solution provides significant value for both commercial applications and first responders.

SPARC AI determines the location of distant objects and places a real-time marker on a map. Our solution operates exclusively using proprietary algorithms without relying on lidar, radar, image recognition, or lasers. It can also function effectively in GPS-denied environments and is compatible with Google’s offline maps.

The latest update to SPARC AI’s solution allows operators to record multiple observations and display them on a map and directly on the drone's controller, assisting in managing complex missions and monitoring several targets simultaneously. The solution also works on coastal waters.

The integration of online and offline maps highlights the extensive potential to incorporate various applications and data sets into SPARC AI’s Target Acquisition System, enabling solutions for a wide variety of use cases.

SPARC AI is enhancing the platform to deliver maximum flexibility and creating greater product depth. A short video of the Google Maps integration can be seen here:
