

Nepra Foods Announces Extra Virgin Hemp Oil Now Shipping in E-Commerce Shop

VANCOUVER, BC / December 21, 2021 / Nepra Foods Inc. ("Nepra") (CSE:NPRA)(FSE:2P6.F)(OTC PINK:NPRFF), creator of nutritious plant-based and allergen-free food, announces its Extra Virgin Hemp Oil is now available for shipping on its e-commerce platform in either one-gallon jugs or 8.5 fluid oz. artisan Italian glass bottles. This versatile food-grade oil presents numerous health benefits and can be used for sauteing, dipping, drizzling, or blending into vinaigrettes and marinades. Nepra's hemp oils are created in the production of its hemp flours and meat analogues, with direct sales of the product representing the first of a number of potential revenue streams for this valuable by-product. The Company is currently engaged in discussions with several potential customers to create other, value-added product offerings utilizing Nepra's high-quality hemp oils.

The Extra Virgin Hemp Oils utilize sustainable packaging, which aligns with both Nepra's ESG goals and eco-conscious shoppers. The glass bottle packaging features sustainable un-dyed Aspen material with a scannable QR code for easy access to additional information about processing, testing, recipes, and other Nepra products.

Nepra's Extra Virgin Hemp Oil is cold pressed to preserve the healthy omega-3, omega-6, and omega-9 ratio that naturally occurs in hemp seeds. This "golden ratio" of essential fatty acids is the exact proportion our bodies need for optimum nutrition. Unlike lower-quality hemp oils that tend to be green and cloudy, Nepra's product is ultra-filtered, yielding a rich, vibrant, golden oil with a nutty, earthy flavor. With 40% less saturated fat and approximately 75-times more Vitamin E than olive oil, hemp oil is increasingly attractive to health-conscious consumers.

Research from various studies suggests hemp oil can also help reduce inflammation, treat skin disorders, inhibit bacterial growth, and much more[1]. As such, the global hemp oil market is expected to reach $1253.51 million by 2026, due in part to the growing awareness of hemp oil's benefits and effects[2]. With this increased demand, Nepra expects its Extra Virgin Hemp Oil to become a kitchen staple for health-conscious consumers, alongside the company's other hemp-based products.

"Hemp is an incredible nut, which is why we use it as the foundation for so many of our products, including our Extra Virgin Hemp Oil," says Nepra CEO David Wood. "The great care we take in processing preserves the oil's natural health benefits, making our Extra Virgin Hemp Oil superior in taste, nutrition, and overall quality."
