Such foreign exchange gain is due to appreciation of USD against the functional currencies of various entities' other than USD.

As at March 31, 2022, government remittance recoverable increased by $7K to $79 (December 31, 2021 - $72,000), the increase is driven by increased sales tax recoverable in L8 Malta and Litermi due to increased expenses within the two entities.

Due to related party balance increased by $1K to $88K as at March 31, 2022 (December 31, 2021 - $87,000) due to additional advances provided by related parties and fluctuation in foreign exchange rates.

Subsequent events

- (1) On April 25, 2022, the Corporation's common shares commenced trading on the OTCQB market under the ticker "JKPTF" and will continue to trade on the CSE under the ticker "JKPT".
- (2) On May 25, 2022 the Corporation announced that it had entered into an arm's length business combination agreement (the "Definitive Agreement") dated May 24, 2022 with Sports Venture Holdings Inc. ("SVH") to combine SVH and the Corporation (the "Business Combination"). In connection with the Business Combination, SVH and a to be incorporated wholly-owned subsidiary of Kings will amalgamate to form one company as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Kings. Following completion of the Business Combination, current shareholders of SVH will hold approximately 87% of the common shares of the combined company (the "Resulting Issuer") on a fully-diluted treasury method basis. Additionally, in connection with the Business Combination, the Corporation has agreed to make available to SVH a senior secured non-interest bearing credit facility of up to $5,000,000. The Business Combination has been unanimously approved by the Board of Directors of each of Kings and SVH. Directors, officers, and other significant shareholders of each of SVH and the Corporation have entered into irrevocable voting and support agreements to vote in favour of the Business Combination representing approximately 30% of the outstanding Kings shares and approximately 53% of the SVH's shares. The initial accounting for the Business Combination, including an assessment of which entity is the acquirer, which entity is the acquiree, and whether the acquiree meets the definition of a business in International Financial Reporting Standard 3, Business Combinations, has not been made at the time that these interim consolidated financial statements were authorized for issue.

Strategic progress

Kings' strategy includes promoting the Brand sites through a variety of international advertisers and through strategic business relationships with online gaming affiliates all in compliance with the Curacao Gaming License.

The Corporation's growth strategy will be implemented based on the business objectives:

(1) Upgrade the Corporation's website

The Corporation has made significant upgrades to the LottoKings and WinTrillions websites providing users with a significantly improved experience on mobile distribution platforms, and re-working the user journey to make the process of using the site as simple, intuitive and friction-free as possible. The 'look and feel' of the site has been re-worked to make the site content more modern and attractive with the goal of increasing user conversion rates for first-time visitors and engagement for existing users. Additionally, the site has made new products available to users, adding new casino and instant-win game content all of which will be compliant with the Curacao Gaming License.

(2) Launch native mobile apps

The Corporation will launch mobile apps on both the iOS and Android operating systems. The app will provide users to access functionality comparable to the Corporation's desktop sites in a native mobile format, including allowing users to check results from draws and set alerts for jackpots meeting user-specified minimum thresholds. Multiple versions of the app may be launched, corresponding to different brands owned by the Corporation. These apps will result in a more seamless user experience for the Corporation's mobile users, and allow the Corporation to convert additional users to its platform through its presence on various app stores.

(3) Expand Corporation's lottery games offering

The Corporation will increase the variety of lottery games available through its platform. This will increase user choice and make the Corporation's offering more competitive in the marketplace. It will also provide a boost to the Corporation's user acquisition efforts by allowing the Corporation to reach a previously untapped pool of users who may be aware of the new lottery games the Corporation plans to offer, but may not have otherwise been aware of the Corporation's sites or services.

(4) Upgrade the Corporation's "back end" functionality

The Corporation will make upgrades to its "back end" systems – the internal systems underlying the Corporation's various websites. This will improve the user experience for visitors of the websites by increasing their responsiveness and allowing Corporation staff to address user concerns more effectively. It will also allow the Corporation to scale its operations more effectively by allowing its systems to on-board and support higher numbers of users. Additionally, the upgrades will increase the ease through which the Corporation may comply with the requirements of various gaming licenses from jurisdictions other than Curacao, allowing it to expand its offering to such jurisdictions more easily if it chooses to do so in the future.

(5) Create 'satellite sites' and upgrade SEO efforts

The Corporation will create 'satellite sites' advertising its services in various Latin American jurisdictions. These sites will contain SEO-optimized content related to lottery jackpots and other associated matters, and will attempt to steer users to the main websites through which the Corporation offers its products and services. The Corporation will begin this strategy by creating a few websites in certain targeted jurisdictions and monitoring the results. Subsequently, the Corporation plans to expand its offering throughout Latin America depending on the success of the targeted websites. In conjunction with this effort, the Corporation will employ a SEO consultant tasked with overhauling the Corporation's SEO efforts including improving its organic search engine optimization activities.

(6) Advertising campaign based on LottoHub app

The Corporation has developed a native app focusing on general lottery content under the name "LottoHub." The app contains general information on various lotteries, including jackpots, drawing dates, and costs to enter. The app is designed in a manner aimed at converting users who initially use the app as a free lottery information resource into paying customers on the Corporation's other properties.

The LottoHub app does not allow users to purchase lottery tickets directly. This allows the app to be marketed through various platforms that restrict direct advertising of gambling services, such as Facebook and Instagram. The Corporation then engages in a paid advertising campaign on these platforms, with the aim of increasing its user base and converting users to its other properties. The app was launched in February 2022.

(7) Acquire complementary businesses and properties

The Corporation intends to engage in an acquisition strategy focused on acquiring business and technologies that will complement the Corporation's business. In particular, the Corporation will target other business engaged in substantially the same business as the Corporation, with an established brand name and customer base, whose operations may be easily integrated with those of the Corporation. The Corporation will also seek out assets that may assist its marketing strategy, including existing apps or media platforms with a connection to lotteries and an established user base that may be re-purposed to direct users to the Corporation's platforms.

Regulatory updates in various geographies

The Corporation does not provide gaming, betting or lottery products in jurisdictions other than the one indicated below.

Curacao

L8 Curacao holds a valid Curacao Gaming License which allows it to provide online gaming products and services, including its gaming platform, from its home jurisdiction. The Curacao Gaming License has few restrictions on what markets L8 Curacao's websites may be accessed for real money play. L8 Curacao is in compliance with the applicable restrictions. The lotteries in which L8 Curacao permits its users to participate through its online platform are operated in full legal compliance with the laws of their home jurisdiction, and in many cases operated by a government entity. L8 Curacao does not allow players that are residents of Canada or the United States to purchase any gaming, betting or lottery services or products from its websites.

Outlook

The Corporation's continued to invest in various marketing channels, especially on social media, during Q1 2022. The Corporation's gross margin stayed strong and is looking to facilitate its top line through enhanced marketing activities.

The global outbreak of COVID-19, has had, and continues to have, a significant impact on the global economy. The Corporation derives the majority of its revenue from online gaming. This sector has largely benefited from the various international "lock downs", requiring people to stay at home. As a result, such forms of entertainment have prevailed in a similar fashion to the various streaming businesses such as Netflix have. Furthermore, the Corporation has limited exposure to sports betting revenue that have obviously been impacted by the lack of professional sports. Management continues to monitor the effects COVID-19 on the Corporation's performance and will amend its outlook as, and if, it deems necessary.

To supplement its March 31, 2022 interim consolidated financial statements presented in accordance with IFRS, the Corporation considers certain financial measures that are not prepared in accordance with IFRS. The Corporation uses such non-IFRS financial measures in evaluating its operating results and for financial and operational decision-making purposes. The Corporation believes that such measures help identify underlying trends in its business that could otherwise be masked by the effect of the expenses that it excludes in such measures.

The Corporation also believes that such measures provide useful information about its operating results, enhance the overall understanding of its past performance and future prospects and allow for greater transparency with respect to key metrics used by management in its financial and operational decision-making. However, these measures should not be considered in isolation from, or as a substitute for, financial information prepared in accordance with IFRS. There are a number of limitations related to the use of such non-IFRS measures as opposed to their nearest IFRS equivalents.

A reconciliation of operating loss to EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA is as follows:

REVERSE TAKEOVER TRANSACTION

On December 30, 2021, Kings Entertainment Group Inc. entered into a reverse takeover transaction with the Lottokings Group. The transaction has been accounted for as a reverse acquisition. As the Corporation did not qualify as a business in accordance with the definition of IFRS 3, the transaction did not constitute a business combination and was accounted for as an issuance of common shares by the Lottokings Group for the net assets of the Corporation to obtain its public listing, with the Lottokings Group as the continuing business.

The Corporation generated positive Adjusted EBITDA over the four quarters of 2020 and Q1 and Q3 of 2021. Fluctuation in EBITDA is mainly resulted from fluctuation in revenue and foreign exchange gain/loss. Significant negative EBITDA in Q1 2022 is primarily due to share-based payments to key management personnel.

MARKET RISK

The Corporation is exposed to market risks, including changes to foreign currency exchange rates and interest rates.

FOREIGN CURRENCY EXCHANGE RISK

The Corporation is exposed to foreign currency risk, which includes risks related to its revenue and operating expenses denominated in currencies other than USD, which is both the reporting currency and primary contracting currency of the Corporation's customers. Accordingly, changes in exchange rates may in the future reduce the purchasing power of the Corporation's customers thereby potentially negatively affecting the Corporation's revenue and other operating results.

The Corporation has experienced and will continue to experience fluctuations in its net income (loss) as a result of translation gains or losses related to revaluing certain monetary asset and liability balances that are denominated in currencies other than the functional currency of the entities in which they are recorded.

LIQUIDITY RISK

The Corporation is also exposed to liquidity risk with respect to its contractual obligations and financial liabilities. The primary sources of liquidity risk are accounts payable and accrued liabilities, lease liabilities and amounts due to related parties. The Corporation's ability to meet its obligations depends on the receipt of funds from its operations. Management monitors its working capital to ensure the obligations under current liabilities are met on timely basis.

8 CRITICAL ACCOUNTING ESTIMATES

The preparation of the Corporation's consolidated financial statements requires management to make estimates and judgments in applying the Corporation's accounting policies that affect the reported amounts and disclosures made in the consolidated financial statements and accompanying notes.

Within the context of the consolidated financial statements, a judgment is a decision made by management in respect of the application of an accounting policy, a recognized or unrecognized financial statement amount and/or note disclosure, following an analysis of relevant information that may include estimates and assumptions. Estimates and assumptions are used mainly in determining the measurement of balances recognized or disclosed in the consolidated financial statements and are based on a set of underlying data that may include management's historical experience, knowledge of current events and conditions and other factors that are believed to be reasonable under the circumstances.

Management continually evaluates the estimates and judgments it uses.

The following are the accounting policies subject to judgments and key sources of estimation uncertainty that the Corporation believes could have the most significant impact on the amounts recognized in the consolidated financial statements.

Impairment of financial assets

Judgments made in relation to accounting policies applied

The Corporation measures impairment losses on financial assets that are subsequently measured at amortized cost. Impairment losses are measured based on the expected credit loss ("ECL") model in accordance with IFRS 9, Financial Instruments. The twelve-month or lifetime expected default rates are estimated by management in calculating the expected credit losses.

Key sources of estimation uncertainty

In each stage of the ECL impairment model, impairment is determined based on the probability of default, loss given default, and expected exposures at default. The application of the ECL model requires management to apply the following significant judgments, assumptions, and estimations:

- movement of impairment measurement between the three stages of the ECL model, based on the assessment of the increase in credit risks on financial assets subsequently measured at amortized cost. The assessment of changes in credit risks includes qualitative and quantitative factors of the accounts, such as historical credit loss experience and external credit scores;
- thresholds for significant increase in credit risks based on changes in probability of default over the expected life of the instrument relative to initial recognition; and
- forecasts of future economic conditions.

Revenue recognition

Judgments made in relation to accounting policies applied

Under IFRS 15, Revenue from contracts with customers, management is required to determine when the control of services or goods are transferred to customers and estimate the variable considerations included in the contracts. Management exercise judgment in determining the point in time control of services or goods are transferred and applies estimates based on information available at each reporting date in determining the amount of variable consideration. Management also applied judgment in determining whether the Corporation acts as principal or agent in its revenue contracts with customers.

Key sources of estimation

In determining the point in time control of services are transferred, management identifies the performance obligations in the contracts and evaluates the satisfaction of performance obligation time point based on business practice in the industry. Management gathered historical return, refund and chargeback information in estimating the amount of variable consideration, due to the limited operation history of the business, actual results may vary from the estimated amount. In determining the Corporation's role (principal or agent) in its revenue contracts with customers, management considered the operation model and business practice of the industry.

Leases

Judgments made in relation to accounting policies applied

Management exercises judgment in determining the appropriate lease term on a lease-by-lease basis. Management considers all facts and circumstances that create an economic incentive to exercise a renewal option or to not exercise a termination option including investments in major leaseholds and past business practice and the length of time remaining before the option is exercisable. The periods covered by renewal options are only included in the lease term if management is reasonably certain to renew. Management considers reasonably certain to be a high threshold. Changes in the economic environment or changes in the office rental industry may impact management's assessment of lease term.

Key sources of estimation

In determining the carrying amount of right-of-use assets and lease liabilities, the Corporation is required to estimate the incremental borrowing rate specific to each leased asset or portfolio of leased assets if the interest rate implicit in the lease is not readily determined. Management determines the incremental borrowing rate using a base commercial lending rate quoted from the central bank of the jurisdiction where the leased asset operates. Management also considers the security, lease term and value of the underlying leased asset, and the economic environment in which the leased asset operates. The incremental borrowing rates are subject to change due to changes in the business and macroeconomic environment.

9 CHANGES IN ACCOUNTING POLICY

There have been no changes in the Corporation's accounting policies in any of the reporting periods discussed in this MD&A.

10 RISK FACTORS AND UNCERTAINTIES

Certain factors, listed below, may have a material adverse effect on the Corporation's business, financial condition, and results of operations. Current and prospective investors should carefully consider the risks and uncertainties and other information contained in this MD&A and the corresponding financial statements.

The risks and uncertainties described herein and therein are not the only ones the Corporation may face. Additional risks and uncertainties that the Corporation is unaware of, or that the Corporation currently believes are not material, may also become important factors that could adversely affect the Corporation's business. If any of such risks actually occur, the Corporation's business, financial condition, results of operations, and future prospects could be materially and adversely affected.

INFORMATION SYSTEMS AND CYBERSECURITY RISKS

The Corporation places significant reliance on its information technology ("IT") systems to operate its business and is dependent upon the availability, capacity, reliability and security of its IT infrastructure and its ability to expand and continually update this infrastructure, to conduct daily operations. In the event that the Corporation is unable to secure its software and hardware, effectively upgrade systems and network infrastructure and take other steps to maintain or improve its systems, the operation of such systems could be interrupted or result in the loss, corruption or release of confidential data.

The IT systems are subject to a variety of security risks, which are growing in both complexity and frequency and could include potential breakdown, cyber phishing, invasion, virus, cyber-attack, cyber-fraud, security breach, and destruction or interruption of its IT systems by third parties or insiders. Unauthorized access to these systems by employees or third parties could lead to corruption or exposure of confidential fiduciary or proprietary information, in a loss or theft of our financial resources, critical data and information or could result in a loss of control of our technological infrastructure or financial resources.

The Corporation maintains security policies and procedures that include employee protocols with respect to electronic communications and electronic devices, encryption protection of all computers and portable electronic devices and conducts annual cyber-security assessments. The Corporation applies technical and process controls in line with industry-accepted standards and best practices to protect its information, assets and systems. However, due to the variety and sophistication and frequency of change in technology, these controls may not adequately prevent cyber-security breaches. Disruption of critical information technology services, or breaches of information security, could have a material negative effect on the Corporation's business, financial condition, and results of operations as well as on the Corporation's reputation.

MANAGEMENT OF GROWTH

The Corporation may be subject to growth-related risks including capacity constraints and pressure on its internal systems and controls. The ability of the Corporation to manage growth effectively will require it to continue to implement and improve its operational and financial systems and to expand, train and manage its employee base. The inability of the Corporation to deal with this growth may have a material adverse effect on the Corporation's business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.

KEY PERSONNEL

The Corporation may experience the loss of important staff members. The Corporation is currently in good standing with all high-level employees and believes that with well managed practices it will remain in good standing. The success of the Corporation will be dependent upon the ability, expertise, judgment, discretion and good faith of its senior management and key personnel. While employment agreements are customarily used as a primary method of retaining the services of key employees, these agreements cannot assure the continued services of such employees. Any loss of the services of such individuals could have a material adverse effect on the Corporation's business, operating results or financial condition.

LIMITED OPERATING HISTORY

The Corporation is subject to many of the risks common to early-stage enterprises, including undercapitalization, cash shortages, limitations with respect to personnel, financial, and other resources and lack of revenues. There is no assurance that the Corporation will be successful in achieving a return on shareholders' investment and the likelihood of success must be considered in light of the early stage of operations.

FORECASTING LIMITATIONS

The Corporation must rely largely on its own market research to forecast sales as detailed forecasts are not generally obtainable from other sources at this early stage of the cloud kitchen industry. A failure in the demand for its products to materialize as a result of competition, technological change or other factors could have a material adverse effect on the business, results of operations and financial condition of the Corporation.

NEED FOR ADDITIONAL FINANCING AND POSSIBLE EFFECTS OF DILUTION

The development of the business of the Corporation and its ability to execute on its expansion opportunities described herein will depend, in part, upon the amount of additional financing available. Failure to obtain sufficient financing may result in delaying, scaling back, eliminating or indefinitely postponing expansion opportunities and the business of the Corporation's current or future operations. There can be no assurance that additional capital or other types of financing will be available if needed or that, if available, the terms of such financing will be acceptable to the Corporation. In addition, there can be no assurance that future financing can be obtained without substantial dilution to existing shareholders.

INSURANCE AND UNINSURED RISKS

The Corporation's business is subject to a number of risks and hazards generally, including accidents, labour disputes and changes in the regulatory environment. Such occurrences could result in damage to assets, personal injury or death, delays in operations, monetary losses and possible legal liability. Although the Corporation maintains and intends to continue to maintain insurance to protect against certain risks in such amounts as it considers to be reasonable, its insurance will not cover all the potential risks associated with its operations. The Corporation may also be unable to maintain insurance to cover these risks at economically feasible premiums. Insurance coverage may not continue to be available or may not be adequate to cover any resulting liability. Losses from these events may cause the Corporation to incur significant costs that could have a material adverse effect upon its financial performance and results of operations.

INTERNAL CONTROLS

Effective internal controls are necessary for the Corporation to provide reliable financial reports and to help prevent fraud. Although the Corporation will undertake a number of procedures and will implement a number of safeguards, in each case, in order to help ensure the reliability of its financial reports, including those imposed on the Corporation under Canadian securities law, the Corporation cannot be certain that such measures will ensure that the Corporation will maintain adequate control over financial processes and reporting. Failure to implement required new or improved controls, or difficulties encountered in their implementation, could harm the Corporation's results of operations or cause it to fail to meet its reporting obligations. If the Corporation or its auditors discover a material weakness, the disclosure of that fact, even if quickly remedied, could reduce the market's confidence in the Corporation's consolidated financial statements and materially adversely affect the trading price of the Common Shares.

LITIGATION

The Corporation may become party to litigation from time to time in the ordinary course of business which could adversely affect its business. Should any litigation in which the Corporation becomes involved be determined against the Corporation such a decision could adversely affect the Corporation's ability to continue operating and the market price for Common Shares and could use significant resources. Even if the Corporation is involved in litigation and wins, litigation can redirect significant Corporation resources.

GOVERNMENTAL REGULATIONS AND RISKS

Government approvals and permits may in the future be required in connection with the Corporation's operations. To the extent such approvals are required and not obtained, the Corporation may be curtailed or prohibited from conducting its business. Failure to comply with applicable laws, regulations and permitting requirements may result in enforcement actions thereunder, including orders issued by regulatory or judicial authorities causing operations to cease or be curtailed, or remedial actions. The Corporation may be required to compensate those suffering loss or damage by reason of its operations and may have civil or criminal fines or penalties imposed for violations of applicable laws or regulations. Changes to current laws and regulations may be unfavorable and have an adverse effect on the Corporation's operations.

COMPETITION

The Corporation will likely face intense competition from other companies, some of which have longer operating histories and more financial resources and marketing experience than the Corporation. Increased competition by larger and better-financed competitors could materially and adversely affect the proposed business, financial condition and results of operations of the Corporation. Because of the early stage of the industry in which the Corporation operates, the Corporation expects to face additional competition from new entrants. To remain competitive, the Corporation will require a continued investment in facilities and R&D to be able to compete on costs. The Corporation may not have sufficient resources to maintain marketing, sales and patient support efforts on a competitive basis which could materially and adversely affect the business, financial condition and results of operations of the Corporation.

BREACH OF CONFIDENTIALITY

While discussing potential business relationships or other transactions with third parties, the Corporation may disclose confidential information relating to the business, operations or affairs of the Corporation. Although confidentiality agreements are to be signed by third parties prior to the disclosure of any confidential information, a breach of such confidentiality agreement could put the Corporation at competitive risk and may cause significant damage to its business. The harm to the Corporation's business from a breach of confidentiality cannot presently be quantified but may be material and may not be compensable in damages. There can be no assurance that, in the event of a breach of confidentiality, the Corporation will be able to obtain equitable remedies, such as injunctive relief from a court of competent jurisdiction in a timely manner, if at all, in order to prevent or mitigate any damage to its business that such a breach of confidentiality may cause.

INABILITY TO PROTECT INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

The Corporation's success is heavily dependent upon its intangible property and technology. The Corporation relies upon copyrights, patents, trade secrets, unpatented proprietary know-how and continuing innovation to protect the intangible property, technology and information that are considered important to the development of the business. The Corporation relies on various methods to protect its proprietary rights, including confidentiality agreements with consultants, service providers and management that contain terms and conditions prohibiting unauthorized use and disclosure of confidential information. However, despite efforts to protect intangible property rights, unauthorized parties may attempt to copy or replicate intangible property, technology or processes. There can be no assurances that the steps taken by the Corporation to protect its intangible property, technology and information will be adequate to prevent misappropriation or independent third-party development of the Corporation's intangible property, technology or processes. It is likely that other companies can duplicate a production process similar to the Corporation's. To the extent that any of the above would occur, revenue could be negatively affected, and in the future, the Corporation may have to litigate to enforce its intangible property rights, which could result in substantial costs and divert management's attention and other resources.

The Corporation's ability to successfully implement its business plan depends in part on its ability to obtain, maintain and build brand recognition using its trademarks, service marks, trade dress, domain names and other intellectual property rights, including the Corporation's names and logos. If the Corporation's efforts to protect its intellectual property are unsuccessful or inadequate, or if any third party misappropriates or infringes on its intellectual property, the value of its brands may be harmed, which could have a material adverse effect on the Corporation's business and might prevent its brands from achieving or maintaining market acceptance.

The Corporation may be unable to obtain registrations for its intellectual property rights for various reasons, including refusal by regulatory authorities to register trademarks or other intellectual property protections, prior registrations of which it is not aware, or it may encounter claims from prior users of similar intellectual property in areas where it operates or intends to conduct operations. This could harm its image, brand or competitive position and cause the Corporation to incur significant penalties and costs.

INNOVATION RISKS

In the area of innovation, the Corporation must be able to develop new products that appeal to its customers. This depends, in part, on the technological and creative skills of its personnel and on its ability to protect its intellectual property rights. The Corporation may not be successful in the development, introduction, marketing, and sourcing of new products, that satisfy customer needs, achieve market acceptance, or generate satisfactory financial returns.

CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

Directors of the Corporation are and may become directors of other reporting companies or have significant shareholdings in other gaming companies and, to the extent that such companies may participate in ventures in which the Corporation may participate, the directors of the Corporation may have a conflict of interest in negotiating and concluding terms respecting the extent of such participation. The Corporation and its directors will attempt to minimize such conflicts. In the event that such a conflict of interest arises at a meeting of the directors of the Corporation, a director who has such a conflict will abstain from voting for or against the approval of such participation or such terms. In appropriate cases, the Corporation will establish a special committee of independent directors to review a matter in which several directors, or management, may have a conflict. Conflicts, if any, will be subject to the procedures and remedies as provided under the BCBCA, as the case may be. Other than as indicated, the Corporation has no other procedures or mechanisms to deal with conflicts of interest.

SUPPORT OF BANKS AND PAYMENT PROCESSORS

The Corporation relies on payment processing and banking providers to facilitate the movement of funds between the Corporation and its customers. Anything that could interfere with the formation or otherwise harm the Corporation's relationships with payment and banking service providers could have a material adverse effect on its business, results of operations, financial condition and prospects. The Corporation's ability to accept payment from its customers or facilitate withdrawals by them may be restricted by any introduction of legislation or regulations restricting financial transactions with online or mobile gaming operators or prohibiting the use of credit cards and other banking instruments for online or mobile gaming transactions, or any other increase in the stringency of regulation of financial transactions, whether in general or in relation to the gambling industry in particular. Stricter anti-money laundering regulations may also affect the quickness and accessibility of payment processing systems, resulting in added inconvenience to its customers. Card issuers and acquirers may dictate how transactions and products need to be coded and treated which could also make an impact on acceptance rates. Card issuers, acquirers, payment processors and banks may also cease to process transactions relating to the online or mobile gaming industry as a whole or certain operators. This could be due to reputational and/or regulatory reasons or in light of increased compliance standards of such third parties that seek to limit their business relationships with certain industry sectors considered as "high risk". It may also result in customers being dissuaded from accessing the Corporation's product offerings if they cannot use a preferred payment option, or the quality or the speed of the supply is not suitable or accessible to the customers. Any such developments may have a material adverse effect on the Corporation's business, results of operations, financial condition and prospects.

ONLINE GAMING INDUSTRY IS HIGHLY REGULATED

The Corporation, its subsidiaries, and their respective officers, directors, major shareholders, key employees and business partners will be subject to the laws and regulations relating to online gaming of the jurisdictions in which the Corporation may conduct business. These laws and regulations vary from one jurisdiction to another and future legislative and regulatory action, court decisions or other governmental action, which may be affected by, among other things, political pressures, attitudes and climates, as well as personal biases, may have a material impact on the Corporation's operations and financial results. In particular, some jurisdictions have introduced regulations that restrict or prohibit online gaming, while others have taken the position that online gaming should be licenced and regulated and have adopted, or are considering adopting, legislation to enable that to happen.

In addition, the Corporation will be subject to the general laws and regulations that apply to all online, digital and e-commerce businesses, such as those related to privacy and personal information, data security, tax, and consumer protection. The laws and regulations vary in each jurisdiction and future legislative and regulatory action, court decisions, and/or other governmental action, which could be affected by, among other things, political pressures, attitudes and climates, may have a material impact on the Corporation's operations and financial outcomes.

SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY CONCERNS

Public opinion can significantly influence the regulation of online gaming. A negative shift in the perception of online gaming by the public or by politicians, lobbyists or others could affect future legislation or regulation in different jurisdictions. Among other things, such a shift could cause jurisdictions to abandon proposals to legalize online gaming, thereby limiting the number of new jurisdictions into which the Corporation could expand. Negative public perception could also lead to new restrictions on or to the prohibition of online gaming in jurisdictions in which the Corporation may operate.

In addition, concerns with safer betting and gaming could lead to negative publicity, resulting in increased regulatory attention, which may result in restrictions on the Corporation's future operations. If the Corporation had to restrict its future marketing or product offerings or incur increased compliance costs, this could have a material adverse effect on its business, results of operations, financial condition and prospects.

The Corporation will likely face scrutiny related to environmental, social, governance and responsible gaming activities, and its reputation and the value of its brands can be materially adversely harmed if it fails to act responsibly in a number of areas, such as environmental, supply chain management, climate change, diversity and inclusion, workplace conduct, responsible gaming, human rights, philanthropy and support for local communities. Any harm to the Corporation's reputation could impact employee engagement and retention, and the willingness of future customers and the Corporation's partners to do business with it, which could have a materially adverse effect on its business, results of operations and cash flows.

THE CORPORATION MAY BE SUBJECT TO REGULATORY INVESTIGATIONS

From time to time, the Corporation and its subsidiaries may receive formal and informal inquiries from government authorities and regulators, including securities authorities, tax authorities and gaming regulators, regarding its compliance with laws and other matters. Violation of existing or future regulatory orders or consent decrees could subject the Corporation to substantial monetary fines and other penalties that could negatively affect its financial condition and results of operations. In addition, it is possible that future orders issued by, or inquiries or enforcement actions initiated by, government or regulatory authorities could cause the Corporation to incur substantial costs, expose it to unanticipated civil and criminal liability or penalties, or require it to change its business practices in a manner materially adverse to its business.

ONLINE GAMING INDUSTRY RELIANT ON MOBILE ADVERTISING

The online gaming industry is a relatively new and rapidly evolving industry and as such it is difficult to predict the prospects for growth. There is no assurance that advertisers will continue to increase their purchases of online and mobile advertising, that the supply of advertising inventory will not exceed demand or that smartphone penetration in the in the jurisdictions in which the Corporation operates will continue to grow. If the industry grows more slowly than anticipated or the Corporation's products and services fail to achieve market acceptance, the Corporation may be unable to achieve its strategic objectives, which could have a material adverse effect on its prospects, business, financial condition or results of operations.

THE COVID-19 OUTBREAK AND ITS EFFECT ON THE CORPORATION'S BUSINESS

In December 2019, a strain of novel coronavirus (now commonly known as COVID-19) ("COVID-19") was reported to have surfaced in Wuhan, China. COVID-19 has since spread rapidly throughout many countries, and, on March 11, 2020, the World Health Organization declared COVID-19 to be a pandemic. In an effort to contain and mitigate the spread of COVID-19, many countries including, Canada, have imposed unprecedented restrictions on travel, and there have been business closures and a substantial reduction in economic activity in countries that have had significant outbreaks of COVID-19. The Corporation's business may be impacted by the recent COVID-19 outbreak. It is currently not possible to predict how long the pandemic will last or the time that it will take for economic activity to return to prior levels. The COVID-19 pandemic has resulted in significant financial market volatility and uncertainty in recent months. A continuation or worsening of the levels of market disruption and volatility seen in the recent past could have an adverse effect on the Corporation's ability to access capital, business, results of operations and financial condition, and on the market price of the Common Shares. The extent of this potential disruption on the Corporation's business cannot be assessed as the full extent of the outbreak and its impact on the global economy cannot be predicted.
